Paolo Romanacci new Chief Operating Officer at OX2

OX2 has appointed Paolo Romanacci as Chief Operating Officer at OX2. He will assume the position as of May 19 and be part of the OX2 Leadership Team.

Paolo Romanacci brings more than 25 years of experience from the energy sector in North America, Africa, Asia and Australia. Most recently he has been CEO of Enel North America, before that CEO of Enel Green Power North America, and as a project executive been responsible for implantation and construction of more than 2 GW renewable energy in North America, Africa, Asia and Australia.

As Chief Operating Officer Paolo Romanacci will be responsible for overseeing and integrating OX2's Engineering, Procurement, Construction and Technical Commercial Management functions to improve operational excellence.

-Paolo's expertise will be instrumental in driving our continued success. We are in a period of strong project growth as we are expanding our operations to include owning and operating our own assets. Paolo's experience will be very valuable in this expansion, says Paul Stormoen, CEO.

- I'm honored and thrilled to start this new challenge. OX2 is a solid development platform, driven by a very competent team with an ambitious plan focused on sustainability and making a strong contribution to Energy Transition, says Paolo Romanacci.
